A Determined Pair of "Plebes"-The Furlough Class and its Approaching Dangers— The Spanish Language Examination—The Diedical Board—A Storm in the Highlands— & Cavatry Drill. WEST POINT, June 9, 1868.

Many instances have occurred since this post was est made a military school which have gone far to strate the spirit of determination and "pluck" ch animates certain of the plebes or new cadets ney do not come under the virtuous head of rrival until September. There are in this year's ota of newcomers two young men, named respec-ely Nichols and Booth, who, shortly af receiving their appointments, took earnest from their very start for this Nichols halls from the extreme westerly end State, and Booth from the interior of Vermont, being frien ds they made an arrangement by ich they shou d travel together on their way toward stdom. They were then—and are still, it is to be numed—young, strong and full of the spirit of adluring their journey the utmost contempt for all such inconvenient modes of conveyance as cars, ties had been given them for an excellent purgood service. First and foremost, they sent their avy baggage ahead of them by rail, and then, int de depart of some three hundred miles. They houses they could find by the wayside, and at last, after having had an exceedplace about twenty-five nules this side of bany, when they were unable to go any further on account of the constant rains and the bad condition of the roads. They remained at the place a on account of the constant rains and the bad condition of the roads. They remained at the place a flay or two, waiting for the sun to come out and stay outside of the clouds long enough to make the mud "dry up;" but they waited in vain. Finally, disgusted with the unpropitiousness of the heavens in their case, they suddenly changed their opinion about the accommodations afforded by rairoads and one day patronized the Hudson river line which brought them safely to their destination. They are now in the full enjoyment of "plebee" life, and will no doubt continue to suffer and enjoy whatever is to be suffered and enjoyed in that very dublous state of existence until the good time comes when they will have their turn at the "greenies."

By the way, talking of "plebees" recalls to mind a very strange regulation existing here by which the furlough class may be considerably chaprined ere the leave-taking day comes about and exactly after the manner of former furlough classes who in their day, for the same reasons, struck their breasts and order out peccurinus, with no hope of pardon. The regulation is to the effect that "in view of the many and unjustifiable outrages perpetrated upon new cadets, especially by members of the third class during the encampment, each cadet of the said class before receiving his furlough shall be required to certify that he has in no manner or way improperly interfered with or molested, harassed or injured new cadets. The furlough of any cadet who does not sign this certificate shall be limited to one month, from the 28th of July; to the 28th of Angust, and this only upon making a like declaration for the interval from the arrival of new cadets up to the 28th of July; It must be borne in mind that during an encampment every time a cadet is detected in "improperly interferring" with a "plebe" he receives a severe punishment, which often entails with it a number of demerits, he hose it well as to forfeit two days. It will be seen, therefore, that this certificate regulation was made expressl

THE EXAMINATIONS.

The first class was examined to-day in Spanish, and considering the fact that the members receive but an hour or two's instruction in the language The first class was examined to-day in Spanish, and considering the fact that the members receive but an hour or two's instruction in the language every other day in the week, they evinced great proficiency in its study. It may not be known to many persons not thoroughly conversant with the statio studiorum of the Academy here, that the Spanish language has, ever since our war with Mexico, become to be considered a not unimportant acquirement. The officers in Scott's army found it in 1847 almost indispensable in their inter-course, official and otherwise, with the Mexica imagnates and people; and experience having thus shown of what value a knowledge of the language was 40 our officers who were fortunate enough to be conversant with it in the past, and as many of the graduates are nowadays sent to the borders of Mexico and perforce brought in contact with a Spanish as speaking people, it is thought that never so little a study of it will do them no harm. It is at present taught to the first sections of the graduating class by the head professor of the language, who is himself a Spaniard, he being assisted in the other sections by two officers who are not Spanish. There are those, to be sure, who carp at the idea of these assistants being non-Spanish, as they decidedly are. There was a time when the Spanish language was studied only in the hird class, as the French now is in the second; but it was thought advisable to transfer if from that class and make of it a part of the instructions of the first class. This was done on the principle that it was best to have it in the class from which the officers are directly made, and that as they leave for their various posts, fresh from its hallowed circle, whatever they had learned of the language would be better retained and, therefore, be all the more serviceable to them. It is now said that the study of the language is again to be put in the third class, on the ground that the first class has already too many studies. It strikes one that if the cause of its removal fr

"A STORM IN THE HIGHLANDS."

This afternoon a violent thunder storm broke over this place, causing for a while quite a commotion among the more timid tady guests of the hotel, who were fearful lest in its violence the winds might fing the house fom the heights to the river-below. A storm of the kind of which I speak is a very different thing up here than in the city. The clouds just over the river to the north of the post were so tiske and of such inky biackness that the river itself was totally obscured from the view, even at the distance of a few yards from shore; and, impelied by a sort of hurricane, they rushed onward with arrow-like speed, and so close to the water's edge that one was almost led to believe, in looking at them, that they were actually bnoyed up on the river's surface. While this scene of darkness was existing to the north of the hotel, and doors and windows were shutting and rattling as though the oid pile were about to fall in a thousand pieces, to the south in the direction of Fort Montgomery, some five miles perform the mountains and making the waters of the river fairly glitter with their brightness. Between this alght on the one side and day on the other the rain could be seen failing thick and fast. Such a scene can only be found once in a while in a place like this, and if anybody here grumbled because it rained so hard it must have been because he was blind.

The first class at five o'clock this evening had a

The first class at five o'clock this evening had a squadron cavairy drill in the riding hall. What with the firing of pistols, the clashing of sabres and the rush of chading steeds the drill was very exciting.

ST DOMINGO.

Diplomacy of Back in Regard to 8 Persecution of Private Citizens—Newspape Circulation Prohibited—How Bacz Raise

The revolutionary government issued a decree calling for an election of members to form a new Congress to inaugurate the President and draw up another constitution, to go into effect at once. These were the only functions allowed the Congress. The recognition of debts, as well as all other public mai ters acted upon, must be null; and whatever legs prise by any political speculators accredited by Baez.

They are all thirsting after gold, and will fall upon the proceeds of the sale of Samana to get rich.
That peninsula and bay are the only jewels left now through which the real lovers of St. Domingo can succeed in relieving the distress of their country. Baez has never been other than an agent of France, as can be seen from the archives of the State Department at Washington, where they relate to the affairs of St. Domingo. All the American Consuls have so informed that department, even Cazneau himself, in 1853, though now he is a de cided partisan of Baez. The American government will have to wait but a few months to obtain what it wants; for its friends cannot fail soon to secure the all sides, at the same time that he sends commissioners to Hayti and the United States, he sends authority and power to Europe, through Mr. Landais, the French Consul, to negotiate the sale of Samana. We read in the Eco Hispaño-Americano the follow

This idea does not seem to be very good; especially it would be far preferable that said republic get along without the protecting influences of the powerfal."

I am sure that the same propositions he has ordered to be made at Washington have been made at Paris and London. Meantime he supports his partisans with the hope of the $2,000,000 which he expects to realize on the 30th inst. from the Anglo-French loan.

The persecution of his opponents still continues. The eminent Dr. Don E. Betances, who came here a few months since in exile from Porto Rico, has had to seek refuge in the American Consulate, with his family. He had been overheard stating to a friend that he had received letters from St. Thomas advising him of the dangerous situation of President Salnave in Hayti. The Doctor's friend was cast into prison—and himself, together with two young Porto Ricans who lived with him, were ordered out of the country, as also young Joaquin Ramirez, a student of medicine, and Señors Pedro Landestoy and Francisco Portes. The Rev. Mr. Figuary, curate of Highey, has also been exiled to St. Thomas. He is an aged Italian priest, who resided many years in the United States. The pastors of Seybo, Victoria Monte Piata, Santiago La Vega, as well as many other notable persons in this republic, are now sought to be sent out of the country. Terror reigns everywhere and we shall soon have communism spreading over the republic. Many of Bacz' partisans, foreseeing his speedy fall and fearing retaliation, have written to General Pimentel to offer their services. Such is the situation at present.

The schooner Dos Hermanos arrived from St. Thomas with some provisions and the Leonor, from Curacao, with $20,000 worth of merchandise, which the famous gambler, F. Savihan, a friend of Bacz, imported free of duties to sell in joint account with his Excellency. Jeanrun went security for Savihan in that amount on the recommendation of Bacz, imported free of duties to sell in joint account with his excellency. Jeanrun went security for Saviha Yesterday about noon the steamer Nelly White from Norwalk, Conn., brought the Burnside Guard, from that place, as guests of the Eighth regiment National Guard, State of New York. By a special order issued by Lleutenant Colonel George D. Scott, command assembled at the armory on the previous evening for the purpose of making arrangements for the proposed reception. It was intended to have a volunteer parade to receive the visiting company volunteer parade to receive the visiting company from the boat yesterday morning, previous to the brigade drill. In pursuance of this arrangement portions of Companies A, C, D, E, F and G marched to the pier at the foot of Market street yesterday morning, and met the Burdside Guard, which numbered seventy-five men, including the band, under the command of Captain J. C. Crossman and First Lieutenant J. C. Crowe and Second Lieutenant E. M. Wheeler. They were a neat blue uniform. The rain fell heavily at the time of their arrival, so that all ceremonies of reception, beyond the customary military etiquette, was omitted. The battallion of the Eighth regiment detailed to meet them comprised two hundred and fifty med, under the following officers:—Captain John A. Penberthy, of Company D: Captain William H. McIntyre, of Company F; Captain William H. McIntyre, of Company F; Captain William H. McIntyre, of Company G; Captain Joseph Kennedy, of Company A: Cantain pany F; Captain William Heathcote, or Company G Captain Joseph Kennedy, of Company A; Captain J. P. Durfee, of Company C, and Lieutenant J. T Gilroy, of Company E. Forming in line they marched down Chatham street to City Hall, up through the Park to Broadway, and thence to the armory of the regiment, on the corner of Centre and Grand streets. The brigade drill which was to have taken place yesterday has been postponed, and will probably take place on the 22d. In response Captain A. J. Crossman thanked the regiment and made a few pertinent remarks. A collation which that been prepared for the occasion was then partaken of, after which the members of either organization mingled together and exchanged the usual civilities. The hall of the armory was profusely ornamented with flags and streamers, and on an ensign on the side of the room were the words, "Welcome to the Burnside Guard". In the evening a banquet was extended to the guests, at which the usual toasts were drank and appropriate responses given, much jovial feeling prevailing. This is a visit in return of one made by these companies of the Eighth regiment. Washington Grays, to Norwalk last summer, when the laster was received by the Burnside Guard with a cordial welcome. They will leave this afternoon at three o'clock in the same boat for Connecticut, and will be escorted to the landing by the same battalion.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAIL ROAD NEW YORK, June 9, 1863.

attraction of the Union Pacific Raitroad with aseverity wish facts to be stated I reply to two or three points in which errors are most prominent.

First—in relation to the use of cottonwood ties. When the Union Pacific Raitroad was begun at Omaha it was entirely cut off from all railroad communication, and until the completion of the Chicago and Northwestern to that point all building supplies were obtained by the uncertain navigation of the Missouri during a few months of the year or from the adjacent country. Before this railroad communication was made, cottonwood ties were used because no others could be obtained from Omaha was a vast plain or prairie utterly destitute of all timber except a scanty growth of cottonwood on the banks of the stream, but as soon as means of transportation were furnished the Company bought oak ties in great quantities in the Company bought oak ties in great quantities in the company bought oak ties in great quantities in the company bought oak ties in great quantities, and they are being rapidly replaced with oak.

THE PRIZE RING.

Catch Weight Match Between Two Cincinna

Catch Weight Match Between Two Cincinuatians.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer, June 8.]

The sporting fraternity of this city, not being satisfied with the Coburn and McCoole fizzle, determined to get up a catch weight fight on their own account, and yesterday it came off on the old race track below Covington. The contestants were both of this city—viz., Perry Grail, of the Fourtenth ward, and Fritz Coalingburg, of the Fourteenth. The fight was for a purse of $100, which had been subscribed by friends. Crail, was seconded by Jim Syers and John Mirot, who defeated the celebrated Cast from Man: Sailor Jack and Dan Madden did the fair thing for Fritz. Mike McAvely was chosen referee, Pat Murphy umpire for Crail and A. Jacobs umpire for Fritz.

Fritz was the first to shy his castor into the ring, and was soon followed by Perry. The crowd in attendance numbered about three hundred, and they were composed principally of tobacco rollers from the Fourth ward, and loafers from all parts of the city. There were a few respectable men present, among which we noticed an attache of the gasworks.

The fight lasted fourteen minutes and nine seconds.

among which we noticed an attache of the gasworks.

The fight lasted fourteen minutes and nine seconds. The first blood was decided a draw. The betting was about even, neither side desiring to give any odds, as the men were considered a good match. At two minutes to three o'clock the men stood up for the fight.

ROUND 1.—Both men came up smilling; Crail with his hands rather low, while Fritz made a more scientific display; Crail led out with his left, and landed on Fritz's right eye; Fritz returned a stinger on the nose. Give and take was the order of the day, until Fritz landed a straight right hunder on Crail's ribs, and went down. Time, two minutes.

ROUND 2.—Both men eyed each other carefully, when they made a rush; several heavy exchanges and Fritz down. Foul was claimed by Fritz's seconds, but not allowed. The referce cautioned Crail.

ROUND 3.—Both men bleeding freely. Fritz led out, but was short. Crail landed a heavy blow on Fritz's mose and right eye. Fritz down, and caught Crail by the left leg. Crail landed a heavy right hander on Fritz's acond, but not allowed.

ROUND 4.—Both men sparred for wind, as the fighting was fast and heavy. Crail de off and landed on Fritz's nose and received in return a left hander on the jaw. Crail rushed the fighting, and Fritz went down.

ROUND 5.—Crail came up smiling; Fritz rather bashful. Heavy exchanges on both sides. Fritz down on one knee, when Crail shot out a straight right hander on his nose and turned him clean over.

When time was called for the sixth round the ring was broken into and a general squabble ensued, and the fight was decided a draw. The men presented a beautiful appearance after the fight. Crail was well puffed up around the ribs, and Fritz's head looked like raw beef.

We understand that the fight will be renewed at some future day.
